II.2.4) Description of the procurement:

The survey is a mixed-frequency household survey collecting qualitative and quantitative information with the purpose of measuring and closely monitoring consumer expectations and decisions on a regular basis. The survey will at least be conducted in the following euro area countries: France, Germany, Italy, and Spain (the “Main survey countries”). The ECB may optionally request the Contractor to expand the survey to one or more of the other euro area countries, i.e.: Austria, Belgium, Cyprus, Estonia, Finland, Greece, Ireland, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, the Netherlands, Portugal, Slovakia, and Slovenia (the “Additional survey countries”).

The survey (hereinafter referred to as the “module(s)”) shall be performed under the ECB’s orders in two different compositions as detailed below:

- “Regular modules” to be performed at monthly, quarterly and annual frequencies,
- “Ad-hoc modules” to be performed on an occasional basis.

With reference to the “regular modules”, the survey will comprise a core set of questions that will be common across respondents and countries but it will also include the flexibility to field country-specific questions and to address specific questions or question phrasing to different sub-sets or groups of respondents within each country. The “regular modules” will take on average between 20 and 45 minutes to complete. In addition, the first time a respondent joins the survey, he will be asked to report some basic own and household background demographics. “Ad-hoc modules” may require additional time to be completed. The questionnaire may be subject to amendments, as flexibility is an inherent feature of the survey. The survey will track the same respondents over a given period of time, (i.e. the sample will include a panel component).

The Contractor will be required to maintain updated knowledge and techniques in the relevant areas covered by the contract and apply the latest available technologies for the performance of the deliverables during the life-span of the contract.
